

ALL INDUSTRIES EAST OF MISSISSIPPI TO SHUT DOWN

ORDER BY GARFIELD IS EFFECTIVE AT MIDNIGHT

DRASTIC ACTION TAKEN TO CONSERVE FUEL IS STATEMENTS FROM WASHINGTON—AS NECESSITY FOR THE ORDER.

MUCH UNCERTAINTY AS TO THE FINAL OUTCOME

Each Monday for the Next Ten Weeks Is Also on the List to be Observed Most Rigidly As A Holiday For the Same Purpose.

HOW GARFIELD'S ORDER AFFECTS THE COUNTRY

Workers in twenty-eight states made idle, 22,600,000. Wages lost daily, $55,000,000. Total wage loss, fifteen days, $825,000,000. Factories forced to close, 250,000. Total capital interested, $20,000,000.

Washington, Jan. 17.—The entire country east of the Mississippi was scuttled today by the drastic action of the federal fuel administrator Dr. Harry A. Garfield. His announcement made late last night that all industry was to be suspended the next five days commencing tomorrow and then on all Mondays through February and March, has spelled the utmost confusion.

Protests Filed.

Protests against the fuel administration's order closing down industrial plants began pouring into the White House today from all over the country. Business men everywhere aroused at the prospect objected to its enforcement and suggested many other methods.

To Buy Fuel.

It developed today that under the fuel administration plan the government will buy all coal consigned to the suspended industries. These transactions will be conducted through the treasury department and it is estimated will cost the government about twenty-five million dollars.

Then Redistribute It.

State fuel administrators will redistribute the coal to food plants and other industries permitted to run. The others will not include natural gas nor use of wood fuel nor power derived from water, which is the exception of necessity war industry from the operation of the order might be more liberal than first announced indicated.

To Make Rules.

The fuel administration will issue a series of rulings on queries concerning the conservation order. State fuel administrators will not be allowed to make rules and the ruling issued here will have general application.

Be Specific.

A series of rulings for interpretation to be issued in connection with the order is expected to make the situation more clear. Under a provision it was decided to insert this morning in the order, the government will become the purchaser of virtually all coal produced in the five days closing period.

Turn Over Output.

Mines producing coal under contract to industries which will be closed down will be directed to turn their output over to state fuel administrators under bill of lading attached. The treasury department will set aside twenty-five million dollars for the purchase of this coal. Coal in transit to industry which will be closed down will not be purchased by the government but merely diverted by state fuel administrators and turned over to consumers who come within the preferential list. The coal will be paid for by the ultimate consignee which the coal originates.

Gardell Agrees.

The rule to be issued in connection with the order will be general in nature. Fuel Administrator Garfield has returned to himself the power to make interpretation and state fuel administrators will be permitted to make only special rulings to fit cases of the gravest emergencies. These will be subject to review by the fuel administration.

Ecclesiastic's Vindication.

Protests began to pour into the fuel administration office early this morning. "What we have done," said Mr. Garfield, "I know will raise a storm of objection throughout the country but the people will see that the order was wise and was necessary." In addition some officials believed he might have been obtained by less drastic Some confusion was evidenced in the result expected by the government war program.

The council of national defense was anxious over whether cloth factories supplying the government with material for uniforms and overcoats would have to be shut down.

HERE'S HOW THE COAL ORDER HIT MILLIONS OF AMERICANS

ON THE BUILDINGS—Not affected by day closing order, but must be closed on Mondays.

BREATHES—Not affected by general Monday order, but must be closed on Mondays.

MANUFACTURING PLANTS,

GENERAL WAR INDUSTRIES, EXCEPT

Food Producing—Must be closed during next five days and on Mondays and holidays of ten-week period. Plants may be heated if necessary, but may not be operated.

STORE AND BARBER SHOPS

Stores not included in five-day order, but will close Mondays.

FUEL ORDER DELAY OF FIVE DAYS NOW ASKED BY SENATOR

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—Senator Hitchcock, democrat, today introduced a resolution in the senate to suspend the fuel order for five days. Senator Hitchcock introduced his resolution after conferring with other democratic leaders in the senate who have apprehension of the wisdom and effect of the order. Senator Hitchcock declared the coal order was an example of "lack of co-ordination and reform in our government is now running wild."

Earlier Attempt.

Previous to this a movement for the suspension of fuel administration's order until after its necessity is established by investigation was set afoot January 10 in the senate. A resolution that large-scale suspension be granted by Senator Gallinger, republican leader.

News of the agitation evidently got to the administration heads because the fuel administrator was hurried to the capitol. The resolution by Senator Gallinger was prepared after conference with other republican leaders, who were determined to prevent if possible having the coal order go into effect.

In the House.

A joint resolution to prevent enforcement of the fuel order was introduced in the house by Representative Smith. The resolution declared "that it is the sense of congress that the order is unnecessary and that efficient movement of cars and ships and full operation of coal mines will obviate the need of shutting down of the industrial machinery of the country and meet the need of the present situation."

Before Committee.

Chairman of the senate committee investigating coal attempted to hold fuel Administrator Garfield before the committee today to explain his order, but the committee decided against it. Later he was asked by the senate coal investigation committee to appear at 2:30 o'clock today for examination regarding his order.

Heed to Action.

Senator Reed said he would ask the Senate to postpone action on the Hitchcock resolution until his committee had heard Dr. Garfield. Senator Vardemann, another member of the United States food administration, of Printers of publishers of daily papers, said, but fuel as far as existing on every Monday from Jan. 21 to March 25, 1918, inclusive, on which days they may burn fuel to such extent as is necessary to issue such editions as such papers customarily issue on important national legal holidays, and where such editions do not issue any editions to the plant itself or its contents.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE FIT FOR TILT WITH EVANSVILLE, FRIDAY

Evansville Should Give Locals Plenty of Trouble in Game at High School Gymnasium Tomorrow Evening.

Final scrimmage and signal drill was given the high school basketball team this afternoon in preparation for the game with Evansville Friday evening in the local high school gymnasium. Realizing that Evansville has a team of high caliber, the locals are putting forth their best efforts to be in the pink of condition for the game.

The game is a very important one in the high's schedule, because of the fact that they have won the only game played so far and they are out to get a clean slate for the season. Evansville, on the other hand, demonstrated their ability last week by trouncing Oregon in a one-sided game by the score of 65 to 10.

The same lineup which represented the high school last week against Madland will be sent against Evansville. Stern will start at center it is certain, with Hager and Land at the guards. Sprackling will play left forward and McDermott and Nichols will alternate at the other forward position. McDermott will start the game.

During the past week of practice the highs have shown great improvement in their passing and basket shooting. The shooting in last week's game was woefully weak and was in the main responsible for the closeness of the score. This Saturday the locals would carry the ball to the basket and then lose the points because of a poor eye for the basket.

A large crowd is expected to attend the game which will start promptly at eight o'clock. Evansville and Janeville always put up a good game and with Evansville represented by a strong five, an unusually fast game should result.

Prior to the game the election of a captain to lead the high school team will take place. Due to some difficulties last year no leader was elected and now that the season is well under way a man will be chosen to lead the men.

The Evansville lineup for the game follows:

B. Hubbard, left forward;

E. H. Skinner, center;

B. Tolles, right forward;

INDIANA AND PURDUE
SEVERE RELATIONS

Indianapolis, Jan. 17.—All athletic relations are severed between Indiana and Purdue universities, the two members of the western conference in this state. Purdue declined to schedule a 1918 football game with Indiana, and Coach Stiehm of the Crimson squad wrote to O. F. Cutts, director of Purdue athletics, agreeing to cancel all basketball and wrestling contracts.

Purdue has arranged games to take Indiana's place on its basketball program. Instead of meeting Indiana at Lafayette on Jan. 19, Purdue will play the Green Lakes Naval Training station there, and on March 1, when the Boilermakers were to have journeyed to Bloomington for the return engagement, Purdue will go to Greencastle to take on De Pauw.

PACKEY McFARLAND MAY BECOME INSTRUCTOR

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 17.—There is a possibility that Packey McFarland, the skilled Chicago ringster, may succeed Jimmy Dunn as boxing instructor at Camp Taylor. McFarland has been asked to report here from a southern camp. Dunn, who has directed boxing here since early in November, returned to Cleveland last month and probably will not return. Homesickness was given as the cause of Dunn's departure.

MILLER HUGGINS' Yankees looked bad enough as it was, but with Uncle Sam sending his toll the problems of the team manager are more serious than ever.

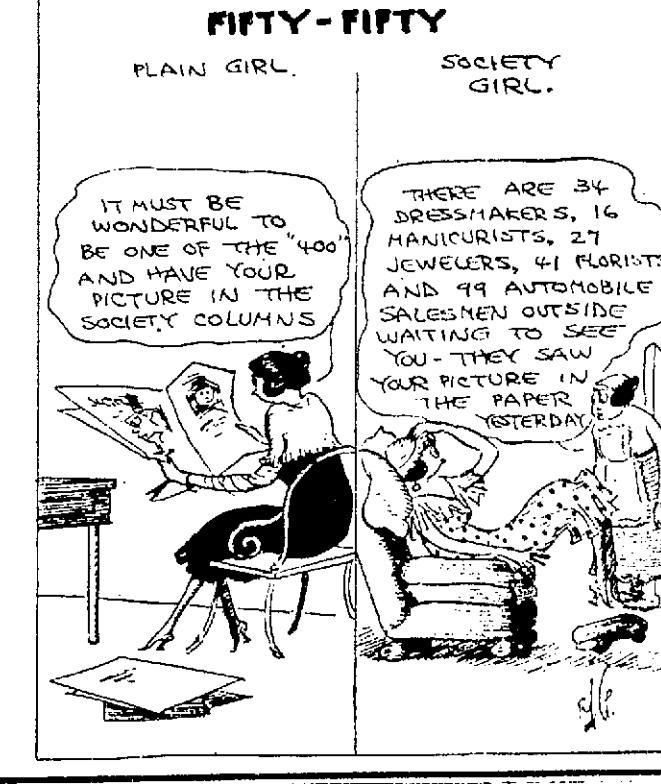

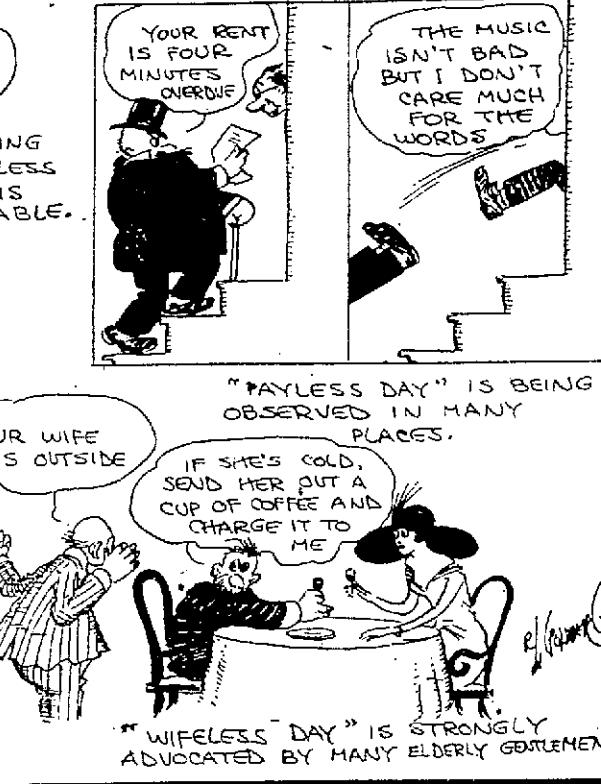

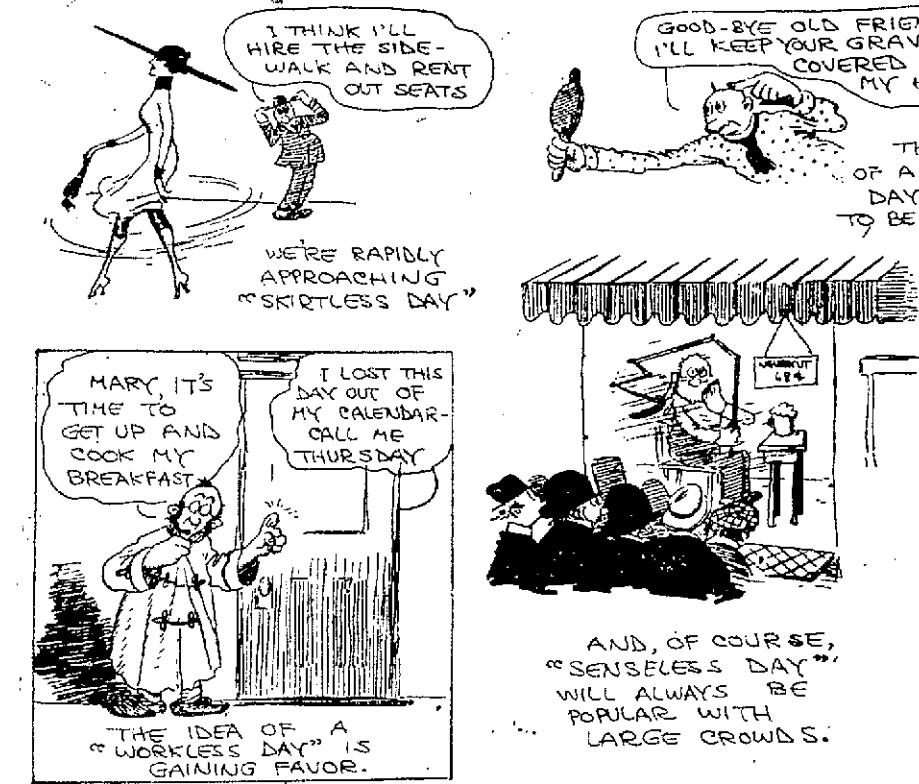

Johnny Evers, who is said to be looking for a job as manager of either a major league or minor league club, has not been signed with anybody as yet.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Detroit, Jan. 17.—The war—its effect on business and what can be done to further its successful prosecution—was the absorbing topic of discussion at the annual convention of the Lake Carriers' association, held here today.

The biggest single step taken by the Lake Carriers in their efforts to "help win the war" is the formation of a shipping pool. Through this organization the pool is expected to reduce delays in loading and unloading to a minimum, and keep the vessels moving faster than ever before. It is estimated that the number of trips by each vessel can be substantially increased.

In taking stock of next year's available tonnage, consideration was given to the fact that thirty or forty vessels were transferred to the Lakes from the Atlantic coast and four others were lost in accidents on the lakes.

Third, they are planning to secure the remainder from outside sources, preferably from companies that have grown Wisconsin breed corn in other states.

Officials of the United States department of agriculture have offered and the committee accepted the use of a revolving fund, which it is hoped will make possible the purchase of corn from outside the state, and its distribution at cost to Wisconsin farmers. Commissioner C. P. Norgord has been authorized to supervise the purchase and distribution of this seed.

The state seed stock committee consists of R. M. McElroy, chairman; K. L. Bates, agricultural extension service; George D. Bartlett, Wisconsin Bankers' association; Commissioner C. P. Norgord and E. L. Lachmann, Wisconsin Millers' association.

Miss Geo. Hayden and daughter, Miss Harriet, were at Janesville today (Tuesday).

John Goldthorpe was at Janesville last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Dickhoff and son were at Janesville one day recently.

Mr. Henry Johnson was at Lima Friday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Pritske were at Edgerton one day recently.

The annual dinner of the Great Lakes Protective Association will be held.

the great inland lakes will bring most of these men back when the vessels go forward in the spring.

Vesselmen found reason for considerable satisfaction in the work of the new law, which will prohibit the use of iron blocks and steel cables at the beginning and at the end, and a serious shortage of freight cars at loading and unloading docks, the total tonnage carried came near equaling that of the previous year, which established high records for the lakes.

But for the delay last spring, when vessels were immobilized in the ice for about three weeks, weather early in December, which took at least another week from the navigation season, 1917, undoubtedly would have set a new high record in the amount of freight tonnage handled.

The officers of the Lake Carriers' association are: President, J. S. Ashby, Cleveland; Vice President, Captain George McKinley, Cleveland; Secretary, George A. Marr, Cleveland; and Assistant Secretary, Harvey D. Coulter, Cleveland, is general counsel for the association. President Livingston presided at the convention today.

The annual dinner of the association will be held tonight.

Tomorrow the annual dinner of the Great Lakes Protective Association will be held.

A COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor: It would appear from news articles in your paper that we are likely to be confronted with a campaign for the return of our city to the old council system of government and in this connection I thought it might not be out of place to start a little public discussion of the matter. I don't believe in persons going about misrepresenting things in order to get up a vote.

This should answer the above communication, which comes from a gentleman who has made a close study of both the commission form of government and the older council government and wrote the communication printed above. It should also answer the question in the minds of many citizens as to what is the reason for this suggested change at a time when the entire nation is seeking concord and harmony instead of disruption and discord.

WHILE WAITING.

It takes patience to meet the conditions of a war period. Not merely in big anxieties, but to trivias that cause friction.

For instance, all kinds of establishments just now are much upset by the absence of employees who have been drafted, and the public is inconvenienced.

Public service corporations, retail stores, and offices are working under difficulties. They are breaking in green hands to take the place of skilled help, or perhaps getting along with a reduced force. This leads to slow work and errors.

Some fretful people lose temper if they have to wait few moments to get attention in a store or office. They should reflect what a trifling annoyance it is, and how small a part of the day's time they have lost. The over-worked clerks are doing their best and they have the worst end of it. The public should accept inconveniences good-naturedly. They are a trifle compared with the anxieties many people have to bear.

HONEST TAX RETURNS.

The man who receives a straight salary and knows just what his income is, will not usually falsify it. Those who are engaged in manufacturing, trade, etc., face a more difficult problem. It will be the tendency of some to place low estimates on value stock in trade, since that will reduce business profits.

Some people seem to think that they should have a certain political pull and that it should be of some advantage to them. I don't believe anyone can say that our government has been conducted upon a basis of graft or political pull, and this should be a great satisfaction to our people.

In my opinion this town should not be thrown into a campaign just to satisfy some of the old political crowd who want public office for some reason of their own. We certainly had enough of that kind of government.

The last six years has been a refreshing relief, and if we remember the old conditions we will hardly make a change. I have talked with a number of substantial business people about the matter since the article appeared in your paper recently, and none of them seem to know who is back of the move.

I think you would do the city a good service if you would throw a little light on this proposition and let the matter be made public. Let us know who wants the change, and why?

Yours very truly,

TAXPAYER.

THE ANSWER.

N. B. The above communication deserves careful attention and it is to be hoped that citizens generally will read it and thoroughly consider it before being swept away by the "sentiment" of the persons who are circulating the petition for the change of the present form of city government by a council of aldermen, with all its petty bickerings, differences, political wire pullings and inefficient government.

The real question is, what is behind this desire for a change of government at this time? Who are the men who desire it, and why? What particular axe have they to grind for their own personal benefit? Are they not the former members of the council who lost their political prestige when the new regime was inaugurated? Are they not men who sought office under the present form of government and who were rejected by the vote of the people as a whole? That it is a movement inaugurated by persons with differences with the present administration is apparent on the face of it.

It is true that petitions are being circulated by ex-aldermen, disgruntled politicians, and others with an imaginary grievance, asking for an election to decide whether or not the commission form of government shall be continued in Janesville. The law provides for this kind of an election once in every six years, and as the form of government was changed six years ago, the call for the special election is within the law.

But why? Certainly these men must have some specific thought on this matter and have some good reason for desiring the change, or are they merely actuated by personal ambition to dip their fingers again into the political pot pie in the hopes of being like little Jack Horner and pulling out a plum or two?

As the correspondent in his communication stated, we have now a dignified form of government free from the petty bickerings and discord of the old "star chamber sessions" that marked the regime of the old council. We now have men in charge of specific departments of the city government upon whom responsibility can be placed in case of mistakes, and have done away with the old system whereby the "buck" was passed from one alderman to another and mistakes and abuses were not easily corrected. To return to the old form would appear to the average citizen a mistake on the face of it.

The Gazette has thus far refrained from making any editorial comment upon the plan to change the present form of government until the causes that created it could be thoroughly analyzed. Investigation of every angle of the situation leads to but one conclusion, and that is that the movement had its inception in the minds of former disgruntled members of the city council, politicians who find their influence nil at the city hall. Men who have personal projects to further and find it impossible to influence the present administration to their way of thinking, and others who are simply against the present regime because it is in existence and are cast's paws in the hands of the others.

It is this class of men, the Gazette firmly believes, are responsible for the suggestion we go back to the archaic ages and resurrect a form of civic government that proved its inefficiency and would make the public the monkeys to pull their own particular chestnuts out of the fire for them by signing petitions to bring the matter up to a vote.

This should answer the above communication, which comes from a gentleman who has made a close study of both the commission form of government and the older council government and wrote the communication printed above. It should also answer the question in the minds of many citizens as to what is the reason for this suggested change at a time when the entire nation is seeking concord and harmony instead of disruption and discord.

ROY K. MOULTON

A LITTLE SLICE O' LIFE.
Opened one of the new Christmas shirts yesterday.
The war has accomplished some good anyhow.
Had planned it as long as possible and find it impossible to influence the present administration to their way of thinking.On account of the 37 pins that one finds.Concealed about in unlikely places.
And the three or four that one does not find.Until after he gets the shirt on And gets to the dinner party and sits down.Imaging my surprise when I opened my new shirt.Yesterday to find that it contained only four pins.Instead of the 90 or 91 that all shirts had before the war. Now pins are scarce.Because the steel is being made into Battleships and guns and tanks, and
A man can undo a new shirt in five minutes.

PREPARE PLANS FOR REGISTERING ALIENS

MANY INQUIRIES ARE BEING RECEIVED AT THE OFFICE OF CHIEF OF POLICE P. D. CHAMPION.

WILL BE VOLUNTARY

All Alien Enemies Who Have Not Secured Second Papers Are Included in the Registering Class.

Numerous inquiries are being received daily at the office of Peter D. Champion, chief of the police department, relative to the method of procedure which an alien enemy must follow in registering, and who is required to register under the proclamation of President Wilson. The big question which is raised on most occasions is whether an alien enemy who has taken out his first papers is required to register. The proclamation specifically states that every alien enemy, not having his second papers, must register with the chief of police or the city in which he resides.

VOLUNTARY REGISTRATION.

The registration will be voluntary and will take place from 6 a.m. on February 4 to 8 p.m. on February 8, in order to comply with the order of the attorney general, and the president's proclamation of November 16, will remain in effect for the duration of the war and possible deportation and seizure of property after the war.

"Persons required to register should understand that in so doing they are giving proof of their peaceful disposition and of their intention to conform to the laws of the United States," says the department of justice.

THOSE WHO REGISTER.

The specific instructions received by Chief of Police P. D. Champion state that all natives, citizens and subjects of the German empire, being males of the age of 14 years and upward, who are within the United States and not actually naturalized as American citizens, are required to register as alien enemies.

In cities of more than 5,000 population, the chief of police will serve as the registrar. In places of less population the postmaster will be the registering official.

The chiefs of police will conduct the registration in the following Wisconsin cities: Antigo, Appleton, Astoria, Beloit, Boscobel, Beloit, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Grand Rapids, Green Bay, Kenosha, La Crosse, Madison, Manitowoc, Marinette, Marshfield, Menasha, Menomonie, Merrill, Milwaukee, Neenah, Oconto, Oshkosh, Portage, Racine, Rhinelander, Sheboygan, South Milwaukee, Wausau, Wausau, and West Allis.

CARD.

Each German alien must execute an affidavit, and each will receive a registration card which he must carry with him at all times. Registrants will be called upon to answer seventeen questions covering practically their entire life history and accounting for their movements since Jan. 1, 1914.

A personal description and finger prints will be taken. Where the registrant is unable to sign the affidavit, prints of the left thumb will be impressed upon the document.

The regulations provide that each alien shall take with him to the place of registration four photographs of himself, each photograph not larger than three by three inches and printed on soft paper with white backs. The affidavit will be triplicated, one for the United States marshal, one for the United States attorney general, and one for filing at police headquarters. The registration card and the affidavits will carry a photograph of the person to whom the card is issued.

After the registration affidavit will be executed and sworn to, the registration officer will proceed to verify the home address and place of employment stated by the registrant.

If investigation the statements are found incorrect, that fact and the name of the registrant and his true residence, if possible, are to be reported to the United States marshal.

A registration card will not be issued to any person whose statements as to residence and place of employment are found incorrect.

Special January inducement for men suits, beautifully tailored, best linings, cut, trim and make, $15.00 and up. Ford.

REGISTRANTS APPEAL DECISIONS OF BOARD

Many Complain Against Local Board's Decisions and Appeal to District Board for Reconsideration.

Complaints against the classifications made by the local exemption board caused some to come in from registered voters who feel that they have not been done justice. There is a decided attitude on the part of these men that they have been placed in the first or second class while others who they think are in the same condition as they are, have been placed in the fourth class. In the vast majority of cases the reasons for the classifications are explained by the exemption board to the satisfaction of the registrants.

Many of them, however, dissatisfied with the reasons given for their classification are filing appeals with the district board from the decisions of the local board, setting aside their claims for deferred classification.

By far the greater number of appeals are from men married since the 1st day of May, when the draft law was passed. Most of these men have been placed in the first class, and they are appealing on the ground of having dependents. One way which they are using to endeavor to prove that they did not marry to escape military service is filing an affidavit showing that they purchased their engagement ring prior to the passing of the draft bill. Whether this is considered sufficient evidence to prove their claims, has not yet been determined as none of these appeals have so far been acted on and returned to the local board.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Now, let me see. Where did I leave off in the last story? Oh, yes! Billy Bunny had just put on his Flying Jacket and had jumped out of the crown nest. Well, sir, I want to say right here that the Tailor Bird who made that Flying Jacket was a wonder. You would have thought that the little rabbit was a Bumble Bird or something of that kind, for instead of flying right down to the ground he kept flying along just above the grass like a swallow, or maybe a robin. Only, of course, he didn't look like a robin, because his jacket didn't have red vest. The Tailor Bird was very proud and flew along, too. "Keep right on," he said, "and if you tear the jacket I'll mend it, so don't you care."

Well by and by Billy grew tired, for he wasn't used to this sort of flying at all you know. So he dropped down on the ground and fastened himself with a leaf for a cushion until warm.

"I think, if you don't mind," he said, "I'll take off the Flying Jacket and hop home the rest of the way." "All right," said the good kind Tailor Bird, "just as you say." And he helped the little bunny undo the buttons. Then he flew away, after asking Billy Bunny to tell his father when he reached home that his suit of clothes would be finished by Saturday night.

Well, it was nice to be on his own

THE STATE GUARD IS NOW ORGANIZED

In order to serve the needs of the state during the absence of the Wisconsin National Guard, now in the federal service for the period of the war, there has been organized, by direction of the governor, a Wisconsin State Guard. There are at present forty companies in this new guard, with a total strength of approximately 3,500 officers and men. These units are shortly to be formed into regiments. Their ranks contain many men of standing influence in their communities, many men of former military training and service, regular army, or national guard. These organizations are armed at state expense and their uniforms have been contracted for with orders for the speediest possible delivery.

Both officers and men have already entered fully upon the same schedule of drills and exercises which heretofore secured for the Wisconsin national guard its commendation as a model of efficiency and discipline. The state guard officers, recently assembled in convention, recorded their determination to omit no measure that would help to quickly make the new guard the equal of the old in training and efficiency.

STATE EQUITY HEAD OFF TO WASHINGTON

Madison, Wis., Jan. 17.—J. N. Tittmeyer of Omro, president of the Wisconsin Society of Equity, now in the federal service for the period of the war, has been called to Washington to aid in the administration field work there. The request comes from Victor Murdock. The first work which Mr. Tittmeyer will be called upon to do will be to gather the data relating to the extent and future possibilities of the beet sugar industry in the United States. Following this he will probably be called upon to aid the government in compiling information relating to the concentration of prison of the sugar beet. There is an experienced traffic manager, but in recent years has been engaged in farming in Winnebago and Waushara counties. About a month ago he was chosen president of the Wisconsin Society of Equity at a meeting held at Green Bay.

Baby by the Sea Saves Lives.

Milwaukee, Jan. 17.—A baby's cry saved ten persons from possible death in a fire early Wednesday, which wrecked the interior of the grocery store of Reitzer Bros., 1027-29 National avenue. The blaze forced ten partly clad persons, mostly women, into the cold street, compelled three fire companies to work three hours in near zero weather, and caused a small financial loss. The ten residents whose homes were occupied by Dr. U. A. Schutte, Dr. H. L. Ulrich and August Hilgendorf. It was the wail of the Hilgendorf baby that caused the awakening.

Ack Rate Increase.

Madison, Jan. 17.—Fire insurance companies doing business in Wisconsin, Wednesday afternoon, filed a statement with Insurance Commissioner M. J. Cleary asking for a ten per cent increase of rates.

Excessive losses due to war conditions, increased cost of replacement and repairs of partial losses and increased expense of doing business, including postage, are given as reasons for the request.

The increased rates are said to be in effect in all states east of Ohio and south to the gulf. A hearing probably will be held shortly.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Mae Marsh is one movie favorite, at least, who admits that she is not the most beautiful actress on the screen. She admits also that she is not the youngest leading lady, declares that she has freckles and insists that she is not an expert swimmer.

"And you might add," says Miss Marsh, "that I am not in any way a skillful horsewoman. I hope to win distinction through these confessions. Every time I read about a movie actress I am astonished to find that she is the most beautiful of them all, that she is the youngest leading lady, the most talented and the most athletic. I acknowledge, rather sadly, that all of these lovely things are not true of me."

But just the same Miss Marsh has charm. That's what makes a movie actress popular. It was this quality that singled her out to the eye of D. W. Griffith several years ago when Miss Marsh was merely one of a large crowd of extras at a studio in Los Angeles.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Henry B. Walthall made his first screen appearance in 1910 in "The Convicts Sacrifice."

Vera Robson, a lion tamer with the Hagenbeck Circus before she joined the Morsley studios?

Fannie Ward is one star who is proud of her age; she's in the forties and brags about it?

Nazimova was born in a small town in Russian Crimea on the shores of the Black sea, and was taken to Switzerland, where she was educated?

Mae Marsh.

imals do is a caution. On two occasions one of the lions got loose and several actors and actresses did some tail climbing to get out of the way. Making comedies with wild animals is the hardest work in the pictures.

Comes a suit somewhat different in the annals of filmdom. Clarence Wurtz, acrobat, has instituted a suit against his employer to recover damages against the studio for injuries alleged to have been sustained when the plaintiff was impersonating an ape for the defendant.

As a rule film actors sign waiver of claims for damages before undertaking a picture.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I want you to give me some advice on a question that has bothered me for long time. I am the youngest in the family of five and both of my parents are very strict religious people who had a hard time when they were young and can't seem to realize that times are different now and the young people think that's sacrilegious when they were young. I have a boy friend who comes to our house about once every week or ten days and takes pictures. We sit and visit with the family a while and then, about eight, go to the show and get back at ten o'clock after we get home, but he says goodby at the door and goes. My parents think I do very wrong in going to picture shows, but my four brothers think it is all right and they all like this young man as well as I do.

Do you thing I ought to give him up, or should I keep on letting him come? Who is the judge in matters like this, the family of brothers or the parents? BETSY.

I can see no harm in your going to the picture show with this young man provided you are not too young and it may be that you take these objections of your parents too seriously. Your brothers should try to convince your parents that it is all right, and if you have one brother who is very much older, he should talk the matter over with your mother and father when the three are alone.

Of course the parents are the final judges in matters such as these, and your mother and father undoubtedly have been good at heart, but they are mistaken in concerning young picture shows sacrilegious, and you are justified in protesting their judgement. Try to have them go with you some night and see if they don't enjoy it themselves, and then

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

MORE SCARED THAN HURT

Letter from a reader dealing with a stony condition—Everybody's Alliment:

We find much pleasure in reading your column and have come to place great reliance on your medical judgment. My husband is a professional man. Yet I am coming to you for advice on a subject that has caused me no end of worry since our daughter was born. She is now thirteen years old. She has always been constipated. For the natural and unsatisfied conditions occur, I have to employ enemas or laxatives. Then for weeks at a time the bowels will act naturally only to be succeeded by another period of months of obstinate constipation.

We have had the advice of some excellent physicians without any appreciable benefit. An X-ray picture (or several of them) threw no light on the trouble. We have tried about every scheme of diet, exercises, the mineral oil, and fatless diet, followed courses of various mild laxatives. We have tried to give regular habit of answering or helping the call of nature, as suggested in one of your talks, but all in vain. I am terribly worried.

The chances are that the mother's hasty resort to physics or enemas, instead of giving the Ole Doc a little time, is accountable for the periodic strikes to fit up work along this particular canal.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Do Cats Have Ringworm?—My four-year-old son has seven sores places on his scalp, which the doctor has pronounced ringworm. The largest spot is inch across round, raised, covered with a brown crust which comes off when I wash it, leaving a reddened patch covered with pinhead spots of white pus. These places start as a whitish pimple. The boy plays with his neighbor's kitten which we have been told has ringworm. Could that be the source of infection? (Mrs. C. E. L.)

Answer.—Kittens may have ringworm and infect children.

Causes of Insanity.

Would "fall" be sufficient to cause insanity? What are the common causes of insanity? (E. S.)

Answer.—An injury to the head might possibly produce insanity, though this is certainly a very rare occurrence. The usual cause of insanity are (1) syphilis (2) alcoholism (3) brain disease and bad home environment (4) war (5) disturbances of gland function and (6) the toxemia accompanying Bright's disease, arterio degeneration, autoinfection and other conditions due to bad hygiene.

The Call of the Blood.

What is a good and harmless blood purifier? What causes pimples and blackheads? (F. B.)

Answer.—Oxygen two miles. To be taken three or four day on the hoof, sunburn of the street. Condition of the blood has nothing to do with pimples and blackheads. Send S. A. E. for data on this subject.

SIDE TALKS

BY RUTH CAMERON

ISN'T THIS INEVITABLE?

"But if you go without such things all men work; they must work on world that throw someone out of work."

Someone had spoken of a luxury she thought of giving up and someone else made that familiar objection.

I think I have heard some form of that objection a hundred times since the readjustments of war times began. It seems to me that the share of governments is to establish federal employment bureaus, of the public (that means you and me) to consider it a matter of conscience to make every effort to bring the man and woman together, and of the individual affected to be willing, when the time is right.

Washing Won't Rid Head Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

EVERDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt will answer in this paper all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of the Gazette. If a personal answer is desired, enclose a two-cent stamp.)

It is customary for women to shun all attempts by strangers to get familiar with them, but if all you wish to do is to say, "do-do-do" or something innocent this is all right for you to do it in this particular case. It will not, however, be right for you to carry on a lengthy conversation with the conductor or to make any sort of statements which might lead him to believe that you wanted to make his acquaintance further.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty years old and my father and brother and I are living alone now that my mother has just been taken from us by death. We received a great show of sympathy from our friends and it seems to me it would not be out of place to send the names of our sisters' addresses and a letter. Can you tell me how to word such a note?

GRATEFUL.

If you can afford to go to the expense, which would not be very great, have some cards printed as follows, using your father's name:

John M. Smith, Esq., family

fervently apprize your expression of sympathy in their recent bereavement.

The cards should be about five inches wide and three inches high and should have a black border.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I got a letter from a young soldier whom I have never met, friend of mine had him write to me, and my friend wrote in and asked me to answer the other boy's letter, because the boy hadn't anyone to write to. What shall I do, shall I correspond with him? My friend says that he is a prince of a fellow. ROSEMARY.

Yes, write to him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please print a formula for a compound used to whiten the hands?

MARGUERITE:

Use equal parts of strained honey, lemon juice and cologne water.

FULTON

Fulton, Jan. 15.—Misses Edith and Lou Raymond were visiting in Beloit two days last week with their aunt, Mrs. John Stoye.

Work on the furnace at the church is at a stand still on account of cold weather and snow.

It is a good time to think about filling the ice houses while there is ice and daylight.

Mrs. Schwab has been in Chicago the past month visiting relatives.

Harold Green has recovered from an attack of pneumonia lasting for the past three weeks, and will leave for Jefferson Barracks soon.

Chris Jesup was on the sick list last week.

The first meeting of the Red Cross this year was poorly attended. The next meetings will be held on Wednesday, January 23d. The officers would like to have old clothing suitable to be made over for children's underclothes and dresses brought in.

"It's not far," the mine-owner said curtly.

He was busy unpacking his sled. Presently he found the dog moccins for which he had been looking, repacked his sled, and fitted the shoes to the bleeding feet of the team leader.

Elliot, suspicious and uncertain what to do, watched him at work, but a signal from Sheba turned reluctantly away and drove down to the cutoff.

Macdonald turned his dogs out of the trail and followed a little ridge for perhaps a quarter of a mile. Sheba frudged behind him. She was full of wonder at what he meant to do, but she asked no questions. Some wise listener was telling her to do exactly as he said.

From the sled he took a shovel and gave it to the young woman. "Dig just this side of the big rock—close to the root of the tree," he told her.

Sheba dug, and at the second stroke of the spade struck something hard. He stooped and pulled out a sack.

"Open it," he said. "Rip it with this knife."

She ran the knife along the coarse weave of the cloth. Fifteen or twenty smaller sacks lay exposed. Sheba looked up at Macdonald, a startled question in her eyes.

He nodded. "You guessed it. This is part of the gold for which Robert Milton was murdered."

"But—how did it get here?"

"I buried it there yesterday. Come." He led her around the rock. Back of it lay something over which was spread a long bit of canvas. The heart of Sheba was beating wildly.

The Scotsman looked at her from a rock-bound face. "Underneath this canvas is the body of one of the men who murdered Milton. He died more miserably than the man he shot. Half the gold stolen from the bank is in that gunnysack you have just dug up. If you'll tell me who has the other half, I'll tell you who helped him rob the bank."

"This man—who is he?" asked Sheba, almost in a whisper. She was tremblingly nodding, sulkily. "No. He didn't do it."

Joy lit in her voice. "So you've brought me here to tell me. Oh, I am glad, my friend, that you were so good. And it is like you to do it. You have always been the good friend to me."

The Scotsman smiled, a little wistfully. "You take a mean advantage of a man. You nurse him when he's ill—and are kind to him when he is well—and try to love him, though he is twice your age and more. Then, when his enemy is in his power, he finds he can't strike him down without striking you too. Take your young man, Sheba O'Neill, and marry him, and for God's sake, get him out of Alaska before I come to grips with him again. I'm not a patient man, and he's tried me sate. They say I'm a good hater, and I always thought it true. But what's the use of hating a man, when your soft arms are round him for an armor?"

The fine eyes of the girl were wells of warm light. Her gladness was not for herself and her lover only, but for the friend that had been so nearly lost and was now found. He believed he had done it for her, but Sheba was sure his reasons lay deeper. He was too much of a man to hide evidence and let his rival be falsely accused of murder. It was not in him to do a cheap thing like that. When it came to the pinch, he was too decent to stab in the back. But she was willing to take him on his own ground.

"I'll always be thanking you for your goodness to me," she told him simply. He brushed that aside at once. "There's one thing more, lass. I'll likely not be seeing you again alone, so I'll say it now. Don't waste any tears on Colby Macdonald. Don't fancy any story-book foolishness about spoiling his life. That may be true of half-a-dozen boys, maybe, but a man goes in his gait even when he gets a bit facer."

"Yes," she agreed. And in a flash she saw what would happen, that in the reaction from his depression he would turn to Genevieve Mallory and marry her.

"You're too young for me, anyhow—too soft and innocent. Once you told me that you couldn't keep step with me. It's true. You can't. It was a dumb dream."

He took a deep breath, seemed to shake himself out of it, and smiled cheerfully upon her.

"We'll put our treasure-trove on the sled and go back to your friends," he continued briskly. "Tomorrow I'll send men up to scour the hills for Northrup's body."

Sheba drew the canvas back over the face of the dead man. As she followed Macdonald back to the trail, tears filled her eyes. She was remembering that the white, singing death that had crept upon these men so swiftly had missed her by a hair's breadth. The strong, lusty life had been stricken out of the big Cornishman and probably of his partner in crime. Perhaps they had left mothers or wives or sweethearts to mourn them.

Macdonald relieved Elliot at breaking trail and the young man went back to the geo-pole. They had discarded maulkiks and wore moccasins and snowshoes. It was hard, slow work, for the trail-breaker had to fight his way through snow along the best route he could find. The moon was high when at last they reached the roadhouse.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Diane Changes Her Mind. The news of Sheba's safety had been telephoned to Diane from the roadhouse, so that all the family from Peter down wore on the porch to welcome her with mingled tears and kisses. Since Gordon had to push on to the hospital to have Holt taken care of, it was Macdonald who brought the girl home. The mine-owner declined rather brusquely an invitation to stay to dinner on the pica that he had business at the office which would not wait.

Impulsively Sheba held out both her hands to him. "Believe me, I am thanking you with the whole of my heart, my friend. And I'm praying for you the old Irish blessing, 'God save you kindly!'"

The deep-set, rapacious eyes of the Scotsman burned into hers for an instant. Without a word he released her hands and turned away.

Her eyes followed him, a vital, dynamic American who could do big lawless things to the day of his death. She sighed. He had been a great figure in her life, and now he had passed out of it.

As soon as she was alone with Diane, her Irish cousin dropped the little bomb she had up her sleeve.

"I'm going to be married Thursday, Diane."

Mrs. Paget embraced her for the tenth time within an hour. She was very fond of Sheba and she had been on a great strain concerning her safety. That out of her danger had resulted though work was the one thing in which he hankered after, and his apparent sincerity overcame Mrs. Brown's last scruple.

She retired into the house, and presently returned carrying a large plate of food and a businesslike looking hoe.

When the tramp had eaten the food she handed him the hoe, and pointing toward the garden path, remarked:

"Now I want you to clean out that gutter. You see it's filled with mud."

The tramp glanced at the gutter, then at the hoe.

"I never use a hoe," he said, "when cleaning out a gutter."

"Never use a shovel!"

"No," said the tramp, as he moved toward the gate. "My method is to toward the gate."

Magistrate—Madam, your husband charges you with assault.

Madam—Yes, your honor; I asked him if he would ever cease to love me, and he was so slow at answering that I hit him in the eye with a mop. I'm only a woman, your honor, and a woman's life without love is a mere blight.

The United States Is Getting Over Its Gentleness In Training Soldiers--And It Had Better, Too

BY MAJOR DONALD M. MCRAE.

CHAPTER XVI.
The subject of training methods to be followed in preparing soldiers for service in this war is one which might prove as many different usages in half a dozen authoritative articles, for methods have changed rapidly, radically and continually since the day when the Germans with their new and superior siege howitzers hammered "impregnable" fortifications out in thirty-two hours, and then forced them to withdraw in line with concrete from Nieuport to Dixmude.

One might even extract a little more from the contemplation of the activity of mind which the experts have had to acquire in order to keep pace with the developments. In some ways or other it calls to mind the story of a remark of "Foghorn" Halliday, the manager of the Hotel Cecil in London, when he addressed a meeting of hoteliers in the uniform of a private of the Canadian forces and with something over a thousand pounds in his pocket, which represented his private "Foghorn" was accompanied by four friends, all privates, men who had been successful in building railroads in Canada. They had just landed in London to begin training in England. The members of the party were "Foghorn's" guests. He so informed the manager, adding that he desired a suite of sitting-room bedrooms and bath for each of them.

"Excuse me," said the manager, "this would be most unusual among private soldiers in suites in the hotel."

"Hell!" responded "Foghorn." "This is an unusual war!"

I should judge that there is going to be a very considerable impulse to fight such an enemy effectively. However, a few atrocities will naturally shock this nation and jolt up our men and generals on the "probable usefulness and necessity" of methods of frightfulness, to be used against captives and civilians. This is a fact which cannot be doubted. We didn't know it before the war, but captured documents and other evidences prove it now.

Pruissians and Bavarians—were actually trained in advance to perform horrid and uncivilized cruelties. The troops of the United States must be trained with this fact in view. I have training methods, and I have no doubt that the U. S. soldiers will develop proper methods." They knew pretty well what to do when the Filipinos were practising the savagery which the Germans have adopted as a part of the Kaiser's plan of rendering material assistance to his chief avowed ally, Germany.

While I am on this subject I wish solemnly to assure the American people that the forms of shocking and barbarous cruelty practised by the Germans on their prisoners are not in the least exaggerated. They are a part of the German system of warfare, contemplated, planned and deliberately prepared for, while the world was at peace, and the Kaiser's great military masters were foolishly looking upon the harmless dispositions of a crank ruler who had never outgrown his childhood weakness for playing with toy soldiers.

DOCUMENTS PROVE THEY TAUGHT FRIGHTFULNESS

When the glittering gaudy regiments of the imperial armies were parading before the Czar and his guests, we suppose we were seeing them off to all that they had been taught to do, but at that very time officers of the Kaiser's army were being instructed by lecturing field marshals actually seen with my own eyes, a Canadian soldier, now alive in Canada who, because of his refusal to give information about his command to his German captors, was deliberately mutilated in such a manner that can't be described except to say that most men would have preferred death.

It is a small wonder, taking all the experiences of her soldiers into consideration, that the training methods for British soldiers have been revo-ved. What would have happened three years ago, if men in a training camp were actually made to fight for their lives—and sometimes lose them in mimic warfare?

That's what happens now, and with never a word from anyone. And there's no way training must be carried on here. It is impossible to train men to meet a gas attack without actually subjecting them to a gas attack if presented by soldiers only.

The soldier pals or the stay-at-home man or woman who is anxious to do something for the men at the front are to be asked to buy these books and mail them to personal friends in the service.

The smiliege book has been originated by the military entertainment council which has been appointed by the secretary of war. Some of the biggest stars in the theatrical world have agreed to go to the camps at ten dollars practically to take personal precautions. Also it gives the stretcher bearers and ambulance men the experience which they need.

SMILEAGE BOOKS FOR TROOPS IN TRAINING

of course, will pay for his tickets out of his pay, and this is where the smileage book comes in. If you know a young man in a Waco company and send it to him he can go to the theater and present his coupons to pay for his ticket.

The Wisconsin campaign for the sale of these books is under the direction of Stolin L. Perrin of Superior. Mr. Perrin has appointed a chairman for each of the seventy-one counties and has asked these chairmen to appoint a committee of ten young men. This committee will have charge of the sales by community.

Next Monday, Jan. 21, has been selected as the day when these committees are to meet to plan their work. They are to receive their quota of smileage books not later than Jan. 24 and to begin their sales on Jan. 28. After Feb. 2 the books will be placed on sale in every county in the state. Among the stars who will go to the training camps are Maude Adams, William Faversham, George M. Cohan and others. Some of the plays which will be offered are "Turn to the Right," "Cheating Cheaters," "Here Comes the Bride," and "Inside the Line." The following light operas and musical comedies will be given: "The Prince of Pilsen," "The Red Mill," "The Chocolate Soldier" and "Robin Hood."

Madison, Wis., Jan. 17.—The annual distribution of silver nitrate, recognized preventive for infantile blindness, is being made by the state board of health to all physicians and midwives in the state, according to James O'Neil, state sanitarian. One hundred and twenty thousand ampules of the solution are being mailed. As a means for saving postage, the supply for cities and villages is being sent to their health officers, who will make the distribution to the practitioners.

Appleton, Jan. 16.—The Appleton Highs will be up in the strong Marquette quarter at Appleton Friday evening. Last Friday, Appleton defeated Menasha here, 16 to 12, and Marquette defeated Green Bay there, 23 to 12.

Green Bay, Jan. 15.—In an effort to repudiate the charges that Wisconsin is a display state, business men in this city have adopted a method of presenting in all ways going outside the state a brief outline of Green Bay's patriotic record. The achievements in war are stamped on the letters and briefly the statement says that Green Bay's volunteers were so numerous that no one was drafted on the first call; that there was an over-subscription of both Liberty Loans, the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and K. of C.

The 1918 legislature enacted the law for distribution of silver nitrate in Wisconsin, and an annual appropriation of $1,600 has since been continued to pay for the supply. This is considered one of the best pieces of humanitarian legislation enacted in this state, as it will entirely eliminate cases of blindness in young children resulting from infection of the eyes at birth.

Failure of physicians or midwives to use the solution at the birth of a child is a punishable offense.
